

The Origin of Language

ANTH 161/LNGS 111

Library Workshop I: finding books and articles

I. Choose one of the following topics.

- Biological adaptation
- Onomatopoeia
- Language evolution
- Sign Language

II. Find at least 6 sources that can help you find out more about this topic. To make sure that your research accurately reflects the range of information out there, make sure that your sources include:

- ◆ One book available from the Crumb Library
- ◆ One book available through interlibrary loan
- ◆ One full-text article source from a professional journal
- ◆ One full-text article source from a popular journal

III. Prepare a bibliography of your sources. Be prepared to state what citation form you follow. Then, on a separate page, note for each source

- a. Where you found this item;
- b. How you would go about getting your hands on the item for use in research.
- c. How you can tell whether this item might be useful for your research on language.

Your bibliography and research results are due February 10.
